

Revision planning sheet

Manuscripts or grant proposals are usually read by three different reviewers, and the feedback from these reviewers often is conflicting. In response to your first version, you have received feedback from me and from one or two peers. It is likely that the feedback you received from your reviewers does not agree. In order prepare for the next version of your paper, I want you to respond to the following questions.

1. Write a brief summary of the key feedback that you received from your reviewers.
2. Select what you think are the three most important pieces of feedback you got from your reviewers, and explain why you have chosen to prioritize this feedback in your revision.
3. How will you try to address this feedback as you revise your paper?
4. In addition to responding to the particular feedback you received, what additional goals do you have as you plan your next steps in revising this paper?

Please upload your responses to Moodle within 3 days of receiving the feedback on your first version.
